Park's 5th fatality

Disneyland hostess is crushed to death

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — An 18-year-old Santa Ana girl, who was a summer worker at Disneyland, was crushed to death Monday night in a new Disneyland attraction, "America Sings."

The 83,000 square foot, 200 foot wide exhibit opened June 29. It operates as a huge merry-go-round with the audience sitting in an area that revolves around a center stage portion.

The girl, Deborah G. Stone, was working as a hostess at the attraction. Her body was discovered when other employees noticed she was missing before the show and went in search of her.

A spokesman for Disneyland said her body was found crushed between one of the moveable partitions and the stage.

Disneyland officials and Anaheim police were investigating.

This is the fifth death in the park's 19-year history.

Blind woman in crosswalk hit by car; she suffers broken leg

POMONA — A blind woman was hit by a car here early Monday evening, despite the efforts of her guide dog to steer her out of the way, police reported.

The victim, Marian E. Sansum, 43, of Riverside, was crossing Holt Avenue at Hamilton Boulevard, being led by her guide dog, Urna, when she was hit by a car driven by Kenneth A. Davis, 23, officers said. Davis, 560 E. 12th St., was making a left turn from Hamilton Boulevard westbound into Holt.

Watson: assessment hikes will reduce property tax rate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — By increasing the assessed value of taxpayers' property, the increase in the property tax rate will not be as big as was predicted last month, County Assessor Philip E. Watson said Monday.

Property assessments were increased from 4 per cent to 6.5 per cent, thus lowering the tax increase needed from 67 cents to 57 cents.

Watson said assessment jumps would include a 40 to 50 per cent rise on homes, duplexes, and commercial property in Malibu, 60 per cent on commercial properties in Brentwood and 20 to 50 per cent on homes, duplexes and commercial holdings near Century City.

Redwood Falls, Minn., recorded a 101-degree temperature, Minneapolis, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S.D., 99 degrees.

Chicago had its hottest day so far this year with a 95-degree reading, causing buckling on several city expressways and a voltage reduction by Commonwealth Edison.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 90 degrees at Phoenix, Ariz., to 49 degrees at Klamath Falls, Ore.

Report Nixon wants to visit Japan soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon wants to follow up his Moscow summit meeting by visiting Japan sometime before the end of the year, White House and State Department officials said today.

The officials, who declined to be quoted by name, said that the President would hold a thorough review of U.S.-Japanes relations to day with James D. Hodgson who leaves Thursday to become the new U.S. envoy in Tokyo. The United States has had no ambassador there for the last six months.

13 others placed on probation

ANNAPOULIS, Md. (UPI) — The U.S. Naval Academy today expelled seven midshipmen, placed 13 others on honor probation and said two who began the institution's worst cheating scandal would receive an unspecified punishment but would not be dismissed.

Vice Admiral William Mack, superintendent of the Academy, said 61 midshipmen were investigated by the Midshipman Honor Commission in connection with a compromised navigation exam which the entire 900-member sophomore class was required to retake.

He said 41 were exonerated, seven were dismissed and 13 were placed on honor probation.

It was the largest number of midshipmen ever dismissed in one cheating incident.

Two others, who are away on a cruise, are still under investigation and will be punished but will not be dismissed, Mack said. He said they began the incident by passing on to other midshipmen answers to an exam supplied to them by a navigation instructor, but did not use the answers themselves.

No names were disclosed.

Mack said the 13 placed on probation "will be reindoctrinated to the honor system and if there is any further evidence of violations, they don't get the benefit of the doubt."

The honor committee said that the 41 exonerated middies used "poor judgment rather than cheating."

In addition, Mack said 29 navigation instructors were questioned and "the investigation concluded that only one instructor was responsible for the compromise and that no other personnel in the navigation department were involved."

The instructor allowed several midshipmen to examine a copy of the test at a review session prior to the examination," Mack said.

The instructor was given a "non judicial punishment"—a letter of admonition—and reassigned to non-teaching duties.

Mack also said that "it has been determined that the examination was compromised without any malicious intent or desire for personal gain by the instructor."

Franco in hospital with phlebitis

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain's 81-year-old chief of state, was hospitalized today with phlebitis, the same illness that President Nixon suffered during his recent tour of Europe and the Middle East, a government spokesman said.

Franco was hospitalized at a Madrid medical center bearing his name, the spokesman said. An official statement from Franco's Pardo Palace residence said his doctors hoped for his speedy recovery.

It was Franco's first known serious illness or injury in 12 years. On Christmas, 1961, Franco suffered a hunting accident.

AN OLD TRADITION BITES THE DUST

New York City's firemen, who have traditionally worn handlebar mustaches for more than 100 years, generally complied with new rules effective today:

no beards, no long hair, no sideburns and no mustaches. Fireman Artie Truscelli is shown before and after meeting up with the barber.

New York firemen bare their faces

NEW YORK (UPI) — They grumbled. They resented. And they doubted the new hair regulations really had anything to do with fire safety.

But New York City's firemen, who have traditionally worn handlebar mustaches for more than 100 years, generally complied with new rules effective today: no beards, no long hair, no sideburns — and no mustaches.

"I figure I'll stay within the regulations," said Lou Halvatzis of Ladder Co. 21 in midtown Manhattan. He cut his collar-length hair to ear level before coming to work today.

"I was prettier before, but I'm married, so what do I need to be pretty for?" Halvatzis said.

Fire Commissioner John T. O'Hagan said the reason New York's firemen had to cut off extra hair was safety on the job.

But Halvatzis said he had never heard of any injury caused by a firefighter's long hair, "so I don't see why they imposed this regulation. I cut it off because I didn't want to cause any trouble. It's easier to conform than have my benefits or my job taken away from me."

"In a way I resent it, but what can you do?"

Bob Burns, a nine-year department veteran with Rescue Co. 1, kept his mustache but shaved his half-inch wide beard "because there's no sense in fighting."

"I don't think hair has anything to do with a firefighter's safety. I didn't fight it because I don't want the departmental charges. I resent the fact that someone can tell me I have to get rid of something."

Burn's boss, Lt. Paul Geidel, interrupted to remind him he also has to get rid of his mustache.

"Mustaches are really okay," Geidel conceded. "I don't think they hinder firefighting. Handlebar mustaches go back hundreds of years for firemen." But rules are rules, and mustaches had to go, tradition or no tradition.

Eddie Veramo, also of Rescue Co. 1, said he shaved his beard "because we were ordered to and I was afraid of being transferred. It's not fair. I didn't think my mustache hindered me as a firefighter, it didn't make me any more or less a firefighter."

But he said he was glad to see a limit on the length of hair "to clean up and de-louse those long hair, bearded, scraggly weirdos. The uniform doesn't make the man, but in those cases you have the man taking away from the uniform."

Remains of kidnaped U.S. diplomat found

HERMOSILLO, Mexico (UPI) — A broken skull, some bones, dental records and a wedding ring were presented to authorities today as the last remains of 31-year-old American diplomat John Patterson, who was kidnapped March 22.

The sun-baked bones were found in the Sonora desert by a peasant looking for cactus fruits. A shallow grave had been washed away by heavy rains.

The discovery was virtually the first clue in the case since Patterson disappeared March 22 from the U.S. consulate here.

A ransom note was found in the consulate two hours later.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Mexico City withheld comment until U.S. authorities study the remains. But state police chief Francisco Arellano and Attorney General Miguel Angel Cortes said that the remains were those of Patterson.

The U.S. embassy said Patterson's wife Anne, who was staying in Mexico City, probably would not fly here to identify the remains as planned earlier.

The remains were found in a remote desert region approximately 35 miles north of Hermosillo, a northern Mexico state capital, by a peasant looking for a desert fruit called pitaya.

The peasant, identified as Reyes Carabal, said the body was partially buried and almost totally reduced to bones. Authorities added that the skull was broken by apparent death blows in the face and the back of the head.

A ring found on the body bore the initials of Patterson and his wife, and the date of their marriage, Feb. 2, 1973.

Authorities said clothes found with the body and dental work also led to the identification.

Bobby Joe Keesee, 40, was being held in San Diego, Calif., on federal charges he "aided, abetted, induced and caused" Patterson's kidnaping, and participated in the ransom demand.

Keesee, who was a civilian prisoner in North Vietnam, was arrested May 28 at his home in Huntington Beach, Calif., at 2:15 p.m.

At the time, he was charged only with trying to extort $250,000 from the government.

He was later accused of planning the kidnaping, preparing "properties and locations," and directing preparation and delivery of the ransom demand, but not of actually seizing Patterson.

High interest rates, inflation trigger stock market slide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rising interest rates and continuing inflation sent the New York Stock Exchange on a slide Monday to its lowest mark in more than three years. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 21.20 points to 770.57, the lowest level since Nov. 23, 1970.

In Cleveland, the Central National Bank announced it was hiking its prime interest rate to a record 12 1/4 per cent. Previously, economists had said the prime interest rate would peak at 12 per cent. The 12 per cent rate generally prevailed at other banks across the nation, but now experts are talking in terms of a 13 per cent peak.

The prime interest rate is what a bank charges its big corporate customers, and it is viewed as a barometer of the nation's money supply. A year ago the prime rate was about 7.5 per cent.

Hole in wing, engine afire, but DC10 lands safely

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — A National Airlines DC10 landed safely Monday after reverse thrust device broke loose from an engine, ripped a hole in one wing and set fire to one of the big jet's three engines.

"Everyone was scared to death," Miami passenger Martin Jacobs said, "but there was utter silence. One scream could have set off a panic. When we landed, everyone gave out a yell and began applauding."

The accident happened about 15 minutes after the jet departed Miami International Airport for a scheduled nonstop flight to Los Angeles.

The flight crew, headed by Capt. A. McGinnan and copilot M. C. Wood, told officials they were cruising at 25,000 feet over the Gulf of Mexico about 50 miles southwest of St. Petersburg when the reverse thrust mechanism on the left engine tore loose. It punched a hole in the left wing and then hit the cowling on the tail-mounted rear engine.

Some of the debris was sucked into the air intake of the rear engine, the crew reported, causing the tail engine to falter, then catch fire. The fire was quickly doused with a built-in extinguisher and the engine was shut down.

Yale Mosk of Miami, one of the 146 passengers and 12 crewmen on the flight, said after the big jet leveled off after the accident, Capt. McGinnan came on the public address system and said: "I'm sure you are aware that we are experiencing a serious problem."

"Hell," Mosk said, "we could look out the window at the hole in the wing and see that."

S.B. supports state law on emission-free engines

SAN BERNARDINO — County supervisors Monday supported state legislation calling for auto makers to produce an emission-free engine or not sell their vehicles in California.

Nancy E. Smith, board chairman, called for the action after noting that local government has "performed" in achieving more than 95 per cent control of industrial emissions.

"It is now up to Detroit to remedy the automotive pollution problem," she charged.

Supervisor Daniel Mikesell of Ontario said that since the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and the State Air Resources Board have failed to implement effective vehicle emission controls, some action must be taken at the local level which otherwise has no responsibility for mobile sources.

Much of the smog in San Bernardino County is caused by a high density of cars in Los Angeles and Orange counties and that is where the solution lies to the local problem, he added.

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said that recent oxidant readings verify that autos are the major source of pollution since daily levels have been higher in San Bernardino, Upland and Redlands than in Fontana where there is a greater concentration of industrial development.

State Sen. Nicholas C. Petris of Alameda County has proposed legislation that would restrict the sale of vehicles not meeting certain emission standards.

Injuries fatal to Ontario woman

ONTARIO — A 19-year-old Ontario woman struck by a motorcycle in the 1300 block of N. Baker Street Saturday died Monday night at San Antonio Community Hospital of injuries suffered in the accident.

Vivian R. Cuevas of 210 S. Fern Ave., died shortly after 9 p.m. Miss Cuevas suffered major head injuries when she was hit by a motorcycle driven by Ray Lynn Pruden, 21, of 424 W. Park St.

Police reported that Miss Cuevas was walking down the middle of the street Saturday night. Pruden said he was riding his motorcycle northbound on Baker Street when he saw the woman in front of him. Pruden said he swerved the motorcycle to avoid a collision but the woman went the same direction. She was carried underneath the motorcycle and dragged more than 10 feet.

Police said Pruden was not cited in the accident.

Funeral arrangements for Miss Cuevas are pending at Tillie's Memorial Chapel in San Bernardino.

Valinda man shoots self accidentally

VALINDA — A man reported earlier to have fired a shot through a neighbor's living room while shooting at birds with a .30-caliber rifle, accidentally shot himself in the shoulder Monday night, sheriff's deputies said.

The man, Robert Navarro, 22, 329 Big Dalton Ave., underwent surgery at Baldwin Park Community Hospital for removal of the bullet. His condition today was termed fair.

Deputies said Navarro shot himself while cleaning the rifle shortly before midnight. Earlier, they said, he put a bullet through the living room of the Paul Pope residence at 333 Millbury Ave., where the Popes were watching television. No one was hit.

L.V. cyclist injured in fall

MONTCLAIR — A 16-year-old La Verne youth was slightly injured Monday night when his motorcycle slid on an oil slick and crashed at Central Avenue and Moreno Street.

Richard Anthony Henley of 2702 Hanawalt St., according to police, suffered minor injuries in the accident but was able to ride his motorcycle to Doctors Hospital where he was given emergency treatment and later released.

Henley said he was riding northbound on Central Avenue about 11 p.m. when he made a right turn onto Moreno Street and slid on an oil slick. The motorcycle fell over on its side and Henley suffered injuries to his right leg.

Psychiatric exam set for Pomona before sentencing

POMONA — Mack Hilliard Lewis, 21-year-old man convicted of manslaughter last month in the fatal beating of a woman, has been ordered to undergo a 90-day period of psychiatric and physical examination prior to sentencing.

Lewis, 125 Randy St., was committed for examination when he appeared Monday for sentencing before Pomona Superior Court Judge Charles S. Vogel. Vogel ordered that Lewis appear Oct. 4 for sentencing.

Lewis was ruled guilty of manslaughter in the death of Luna Pearl Welton, 38, who died of injuries she suffered during a beating in Lewis' home Oct. 21.

Two U.S. meat graders from Ontario indicted

ONTARIO — A federal Grand Jury investigating alleged corruption in the Los Angeles area meat industry has indicted two U.S. Department of Agriculture meat graders from Ontario on charges of receiving bribes and committing perjury.

Indicted in the probe were Joe Edwin Hurst, 27, of 2128 S. Euclid Ave., and Roy Lantis, 28, of 1304 W. Philadelphia St., along with three other men. The three others, identified by Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert C. Bonner, are Jerry Malcolm, 31, and Roger S. Wood, 27, both of Anaheim and Harold Nightingale, 44, of Westminster.

According to Bonner, the five graders are charged with receiving cash bribes during assignments to various meat packing companies to grade beef. Bonner said that the amounts of the bribes received by the graders at the meat packing companies was as high as $300 in cash per week.

In addition to the charges of receiving cash bribes in connection with their grading duties, Malcolm and Lantis were charged with making false declarations during their testimony before the federal Grand Jury investigating the case.

U.S. Department of Agriculture meat graders are responsible for determining the quality or grade of beef sold by packing companies, that is whether the beef is USDA "prime," "choice" or "good" or some lower grade.

Meanwhile, a Santa Ana meat packing firm owner and his sales manager Monday were fined a total of $60,000 and placed on three years probation each for giving gratuities to federal meat inspectors.

Mate Gerson, owner of the Santa Ana Packing Co., was given a one year suspended prison sentence, put on three years probation and fined $40,000.

Gerson's sales manager, Donald Morgan, was given a one year suspended sentence, three years probation and a $20,000 fine. Both pleaded guilty June 4 to four counts of giving a gratuity to an agriculture department meat inspector.

They said they had paid the inspectors, who grade meat for "prime," "choice" or "good" quality, $20 on four occasions to influence their grading.

Eight packing companies in the Los Angeles area have been charged with making payoffs to Department of Agriculture officials.

Walnut School Board elects new officers

WALNUT — T. James Hannan, a sales manager for Kaiser Gypsum Co., was elected president of the Walnut School Board Monday night.

Hannan, who replaces Richard B. Vind, was elected during the board's annual organizational meeting. He has served on the board since 1971 when he was elected to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Raymond Fausel.

Dr. Richard A. Falloon was elected vice president of the board, and J. Edwin Nettell, was elected clerk.

Hannan and his wife and three children reside at 3401 Hiltona Drive in West Covina.

In other business Monday, trustees approved a $6,836,000 publication budget, for 1974-75, up about $700,000 compared to last year.

The budget reflects few changes over the tentative plan approved by the board several weeks ago. It is about $100,000 higher than the tentative budget.

Personnel director Ray McMullen said publication figures still predict a 4-cent drop in the general fund tax rate, to $4.476 per $100 assessed valuation.

Reason for the increased budget over last year is cost of educating an expected 6 per cent boost in student population for 1974-75, he added.

"It costs $360,000 just to keep pace with that growth," said McMullen.

Lopez is named to cities group

LA VERNE — Mayor Morales has named Councilman Daniel Lopez as the city's representative to the Valley Association of Cities.

The appointment was confirmed by the council along with other assignments. Reappointed were Tom Charles and Richard Owen to the parks and recreation commission, Henry Blocher to the environmental quality commission, and Joan Teter, Ann Way, Dana Johansen, Harold Royer, Lois Mueller, Evelyn Hollinger, Betty Riday, Eugene Allen, Angela Blackburn, John Kowite and Doris Felch, to the city beautiful committee. A new member of the city beautiful committee is Mrs. Mirla Dennis, a new resident of La Verne.

Costs of salaries have risen, he explained, and the district is adding 22 new employee positions.

There is still an $89,000 deficit contained in the budget, when comparing bare income and expenditure figures, without reserves. But when surpluses are included, it is balanced.

A final budget is expected to be approved at the Aug. 5 meeting.

Montclair names new city clerk

SAN DIMAS — Trudy Hill, secretary to the San Dimas director of public works for seven years, has been appointed the new city clerk for the City of Montclair.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman announced Mrs. Hill's appointment today. She will assume responsibilities of the new job on July 22, succeeding Barbara Williams.

Mrs. Hill will act as the executive secretary to Wasserman and clerk to the City Council. The 36-year-old woman is the mother of four children and has been employed by the City of San Dimas for about seven years.

The City Council will ratify Mrs. Hill's appointment during its Monday night meeting.

Burglars stymied by jeweler's safe

UPLAND — Burglars were unsuccessful in attempting to crack a walk-in safe at Davis Jewelers at 220 N. Second Ave. and cutting through a wall to an adjoining store early Monday morning, according to Upland police.

Officer Lee Gilbert discovered that burglars had entered the jewelry store and attempted to punch the lock of a walk-in safe. A further investigation revealed that the burglars only succeeded in jamming the safe and also were unable to break through a wall in the store to gain entrance to an adjoining store.

Police were unable to open the jammed safe until late Monday morning.

Woman hurt in wreck

POMONA — A Glendora woman suffered a neck injury late Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at Garey Avenue and Olive Street.

Doneva M. Von Schoenen, 43, was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police reported that Mrs. Von Schoenen was eastbound in Olive Street and Carol M. Ward, 33, 439 Cedarcrest Ave., was northbound when their cars collided.

Trudeau scores solid, surprising victory

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's handling of inflation, the issue that toppled his Liberal government two months ago, won him a surprising and solid victory early today in Canada's general election.

Latest results gave the Liberals 141 seats in the House of Commons, eight more than they needed to capture majority control of parliament for the next four years.

The Progressive Conservatives had 95 seats, the New Democratic Party 16, and the Quebec-based Social Credit movement 11. One independent, a maverick Conservative, was elected.

It was a victory that surprised pollsters, who had predicted that neither Trudeau nor opposition Conservative leader Robert L. Stanfield would gain an absolute majority.

Until his government was toppled May 8 on the inflation issue, Trudeau had ruled for 18 months with a minority government kept in office with support of the socialist New Democratic Party. It was the defection of the New Democrats that toppled Trudeau.

Ironically, the New Democrat leader David Lewis, was beaten in Toronto. His party's parliamentary representation was almost halved from 31 seats won in 1972.

The Trudeau comeback, basically a smashing Liberal triumph in the key province of Ontario, gave Canada a clear cut majority government for only the third time since 1962.

"Canada has come out of this election strong, confident of its future," said Trudeau, who first became prime minister in 1968 when his swinging bachelor image propelled the Liberals to their greatest victory in 15 years.

"I just want to say I want to get on with the job," Trudeau said.

He won by convincing Canadians that a freeze on wages and prices — the major pledge by Stanfield — would not work. Trudeau said inflation was a global problem that controls will not solve.

Trudeau easily won a personal victory in his own constituency in Montreal, which assured his return to Parliament as national leader of the winning party. Stanfield, 60, making his third unsuccessful attempt to become prime minister, was personally re-elected in Halifax but would not comment on whether he would continue as Progressive Conservative leader.

The political fortunes of the 54-year-old Trudeau, who changed his tactics this time from an elder statesman approach to become a hard-hitting campaigner aided by his young wife Margaret, began to revive early Monday night when his Liberals won three new seats in the Atlantic provinces.

But it was in Ontario, with one third of the members of Parliament, where Trudeau won back much of the majority he lost 18 months ago. After that it was a matter of holding the handful of seats the Liberals have held in the rich farming and oil lands of western Canada.

Shortly before midnight Stanfield conceded defeat, and Trudeau acknowledged victory.

It was the fourth election in a decade but only the third during summer months this century. The turnout was fewer than 9 million of the 13.5 million eligible voters and officials blamed it on the vacation timing.

Colson takes bible to jail

MCLEAN, Va. (UPI) — Former White House tough guy Charles W. Colson went to jail Monday, packing a few editions of the Bible and a promise of new information about Watergate.

Before leaving his home here to surrender to federal authorities in Baltimore, Colson told reporters he would testify before the House Judiciary Committee Friday.

He would not say whether his information would help or hurt President Nixon, the man on whose behalf he masterminded political dirty tricks in the 1972 election.

But Colson did say, when pressed, "It's information that I hope will be helpful to the country in getting over the agonies of Watergate."

He said the information would deal, in part, with his relationship to Nixon, "which was and is very close."

Colson began a one-to-three-year prison sentence for obstruction of justice in attempting to smear Daniel Ellsberg while he was on trial for leaking the Pentagon Papers.

He told reporters gathered in his driveway he felt about prison like the character who was tarred and feathered and run out of town: "If it wasn't for the honor I'd just as soon avoid it."

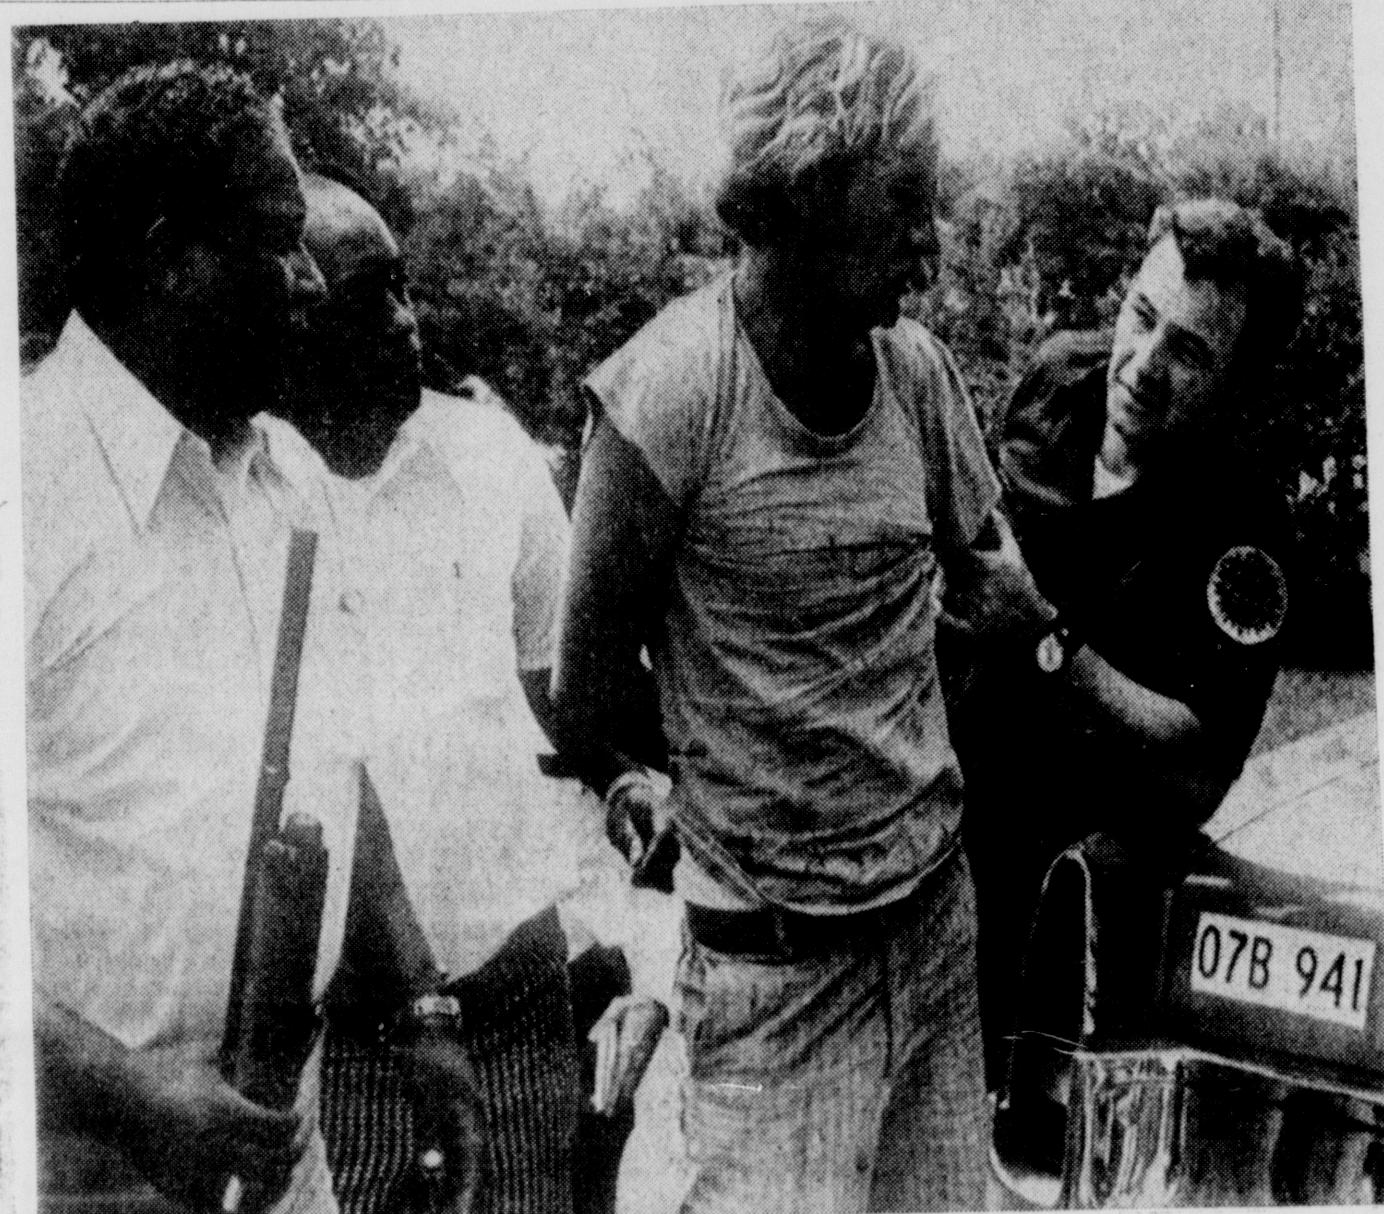

Colson, who once was quoted as saying he would walk over his grandmother to get Nixon re-elected, has since said he found Christianity. He said the only reading matter he would take to prison was "a couple of editions of the Bible and is very close."

The former presidential counsel avoided repeated questions about the nature of his new information.

He said only "yes" when asked if his testimony would touch matters not discussed by various congressional committees and grand juries in their investigations of Watergate.

Colson said he had no firm plans after he leaves prison. "It will just be nice to come home," he said. "I do want to do some lay missionary work."

FUGITIVE CAUGHT

Police take into custody one of 13 state prison inmates who commandeered a prison bus Monday and drove through a hail of bullets as they escaped into a residential area of west Nashville, Tenn. The convicts took over the bus at the prison farm and abandoned it in the Charlotte Park area.

Tennessee State Penitentiary

13 cons escape through barrage of gunfire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Police using helicopters and bloodhounds today searched for 7 of 13 escapees from the Tennessee State Penitentiary who stole a prison bus and roared away through a barrage of gunfire from security guards.

Three of the escapees were recaptured, two wounded, about four hours after the incident. Police captured the fourth early today on the banks of the Cumberland River.

The search was concentrated in the Charlotte Park-West Nashville residential area, where the bullet-riddled bus was abandoned by the convicts.

There were 13 prisoners in the bus, but Warden Jim Rose said two of them were unwilling participants who later surrendered.

Picked up early today was Billie Joe Wright of Montgomery County, serving 9-30 years for burglary, housebreaking and larceny.

Captured Monday were Roger Chisham of Manchester, driver of the vehicle, William Smith of Knox County and Donald Taylor of Knoxville. They were caught near Interstate 40, which serves as the southern perimeter of the Charlotte Park neighborhood.

"I thought we could make it, I really thought we could make it," said Smith, as he was led handcuffed to a police van. "It's a hell hole. I just had to get out," he said.

Rose said the convicts made their break at 11:30 a.m. as they boarded the bus at the prison farm to return to the penitentiary for lunch.

He said Chisham, 22, suddenly jumped into the driver's seat, blew the horn and started the engine. The warden added that seven or eight of the convicts jumped off the bus as Chisham, serving a 15-year rape sentence, roared off.

Three security guards blazed away with shotguns and pistols, splintering windows. Reports indicated that at least two of the prisoners were cut by flying glass.

Gov. Winfield Dunn issued a strong statement following the escape, which capped several of such incidents in the last few months.

"I find the recent rash of escapes to be intolerable and I intend to take whatever action is necessary after I have received the requested information," said Dunn.

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon exceeded his constitutional authority in imposing a 10 per cent surcharge on imports in 1971 and the government must refund $500 million to importers, the U.S. Customs Court ruled Monday.

The government indicated it would appeal.

Nixon imposed the surcharge, effective from Aug. 16 to Dec. 20, 1971, as a means of improving the United States' balance of payments deficit. It had the effect of discouraging foreign imports by making them more expensive while at the same time making American exports cheaper.

A three-judge panel of the customs court said in a unanimous, 41-page decision, written by Chief Judge Nils A. Boe, that Nixon had "arrogated unto a president a power beyond the scope of any authority delegated to him by Congress" in imposing the surcharge, a part of Nixon's Phase I anti-inflation package.

"The power to levy and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises and to regulate foreign commerce has been vested solely in Congress by the Constitution," the court said.

Younger said the bombings of his office in Los Angeles May 31 and the federal building in San Francisco March 7 are believed to be the work of the Weatherman Weather Underground.

He appealed for wide publicity about the fugitives in hopes it will lead to their capture.

His report noted California terrorists have "found a certain degree of security by operating in large urban areas."

Younger said, "The phenomenon of terrorism born out of the student movement of the 60s will continue to plague California during the next several years."

Younger said most student dissidents are "disaffected" by the violence of terrorism.

But he added, "As terrorist organizations gradually lose those individuals not fully committed to their cause, we are left with small groups of a disciplined and potentially more dangerous nature."

"The ability of law enforcement to penetrate the small, mobile, well-structured terrorist organization is becoming increasingly more difficult."

West greedy at double 7

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

The bidding of today's hand is typical of what happens in a free swinging rubber-bridge game. It starts out quietly enough and suddenly North jumps to five clubs. East doesn't have much of a hand, but he isn't going to let his vulnerable opponents play at five clubs. Of course, if East had passed the chances are that West would have tried five diamonds all by himself.

Anyway, East bid five spades, South six clubs and West six spades. At this point North might have doubled. But North was one of those optimists who thought that maybe, just maybe his partner would have the right hand to make seven clubs. So North passed.

South was sure that North's pass of six spades showed a void of spades. If he also held both red aces, a grand slam would materialize. So he bid seven clubs.

West doubled. He was looking at two aces. Then West got greedy. He decided to open his ace of spades and wait for two diamond tricks.

This turned out to be a really expensive mistake. South ruffed in dummy; pulled trumps and made his grand slam since he was able to discard his one diamond on North's long heart and to ruff all his spades.

Vanderbilt dies at 76

MIAMI (UPI) — Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., scion of railroad tycoons who became a $25 a week reporter and lost his spot in the Social Register, died Sunday. He was 76.

His career as a newspaper publisher, foreign correspondent, columnist and magazine writer spanned nearly five decades and he was the author of half a dozen books. His best known work was a biography of his mother, titled "Queen of the Golden Age."

Among his journalistic triumphs were 15 interviews with Joseph Stalin and 12 with Benito Mussolini, as well as interviews with such varied figures as Mahatma Gandhi and Al Capone. He covered the Reichstag fire in Berlin, which set the stage in 1934 for Adolf Hitler's seizure of absolute power in Germany.

He was born in 1898 the son of Cornelius Vanderbilt, great grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, a ferry boat skipper who founded the New York Central railroad. His mother was the former Grace Wilson, daughter of a cotton broker who became a Confederate general.

His family divided its time between its 70-room mansion on New York's Fifth Avenue, its ocean going steam yacht, and its villa at Newport, R.I.

However, at the age of 21, Vanderbilt became a reporter on the old New York Herald before its merger with the New York Tribune, and in 1925 he launched the Miami Daily Tab, an illustrated tabloid newspaper here which went under 18 months later.

Vanderbilt is survived by his widow, Mary Lou.

At Bridges Hall

Claremont Music Festival Opens at Pomona College

By RALPH PIERCE

CLAREMONT The Claremont Festival Orchestra under the enthusiastic leadership of conductor and festival director Giora Bernstein opened to a packed house in Bridges Hall, Pomona College.

The audience was certainly not disappointed, as the level of playing seems to improve with each season. The young players, chosen from applicants throughout the United States, play in a truly professional manner which should bring a good deal of satisfaction to their conductor.

Friday's concert presents two works of very contrasting styles. First we heard the delightful Sinfonia Concertante in B flat by Haydn. This could be described as an expanded concerto as it requires four soloists, violin, cello, oboe and bassoon.

Unlike the older concerto grosso form, Haydn uses each solo instrument as he would if it were a solo concerto. The two wind players were young members of the orchestra and they turned in a really outstanding performance of the demanding parts.

The violin solo part was played by Charles Libove who again joins the faculty of the institute. He played with his usual artistic delivery and beautiful tone, and the cello part was played by another faculty member, George Neikrug, who seemed to be plagued with intonation problems during the program.

The "tour de force" of the evening was the Mahler Symphony No. 1 in D major. This work is a challenge to any great orchestra because of its extended form and the demands it makes on all of the players, not to mention the conductor. Credit for their fine performance should be equally divided between the excellent young orchestra members and their very gifted conductor.

Few conductors could take a new group of players and, in about two weeks, get them ready to deliver this sort of a performance. While one could hardly say that their performance had the continuity and sweep of that of a major orchestra with a famous conductor, there was certainly no lack of precision or pure orchestra with a famous conductor, there was certainly no lack of precision or pure orchestral technique. Bernstein is an artist who knows his score and knows how to get what he wants from the players. The Mahler was dedicated to the memory of violinist Philip Goldberg, former instructor and member of the orchestra who died last week.

The conductor and orchestra received a enthusiastic standing ovation at the end of the evening's concert. If you plan to attend any of the concerts in the summer series, you would be well advised to purchase your tickets in advance as a sold out house seems to be the usual order.

Speedy weight loss can cause problems

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a six-foot, 74-year-old man, and I weighed 198 pounds two months ago. I didn't go on any of those new-fangled diets. I just cut down on food. Also eliminated all fats and sweets. For one week I had a large orange and coffee for breakfast, an ordinary meal at noon, then no more until the next morning.

I got so weak and faint from this that I took a little skim milk with breakfast and a little at evening. Now I weigh 179. I walk an average of three miles a day. Also go through exercises four times a day. I'm very satisfied with the way I have lost weight. How far do you think I should go? Would 160 for my age be too far?

When I walk quite fast, suddenly I become a little faint. So then I rest a few minutes. It doesn't last but a minute or two, than I can go on again. Is this any danger of a heart attack? I had a physical recently and my heart checked out perfectly.

Dear Reader—In general you are on the right course. I suspect you are rushing it a bit. You have been losing a bit more than two pounds a week. Eat a little more and be satisfied to lose one pound of actual fat a week. A combination of physical exercise and diet is really the best way to control your excess fat.

Those symptoms you had were signs that you were overdoing the dieting. I can't repeat too often that failure to eat enough calories leads to semistarvation with fatigue, faintness, and many other changes that are bad for your health.

And, don't try to overdo the exercise, either. It isn't necessary that you walk fast and cause yourself to feel faint. I suspect this too is part of your overdoing your diet. It doesn't mean you will have a heart attack. I want to encourage you to continue your effort but at a safer level. You should like a typical person who is impatient for results and tends to overdo most things. You can walk three or more miles at a comfortable rate or even by breaking it up into two or three walking periods a day.

How much should you lose? I never could answer that question with certainty, even with radio-isotope measurements of the amount of fat and the patient before me. The only way you know how much you should lose is after you have lost it. As long as you have any significant amounts of fat around the small of the back, or signs of a spare tire, or too much to sit on, you still have fat you can do without.

A good way to approach the problem of how much is to set a sensible goal and after you have reached it, reevaluate yourself in terms of fat under the skin. If there is still some there, do something about it.

Still another problem is the change in the amount of muscles a person has. If you diet too fast you may lose muscles as well as fat, and then there will still be fat to lose. Or, if you are exercising regularly, which I recommend, then you may grow muscles. As your muscles enlarge and the fat goes away, you might not lose so many pounds even though you are healthier and have lost fat. In that case you may reach the important goal of losing FAT even though you may not have lost many POUNDS. Again the key is, "how much fat is under the skin?"

Send your questions to Dr.

Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Some men like brow-beatings

Some men really need to be henpecked, you know. They like it. The American Institute of Family Relations found that out. Its studies indicate that if such fellows aren't dominated by their wives, they tend to get edgy. A matter of insecurity, evidently. Our Love and War man submitted the foregoing with curled lip.

ERROLL GARNER

Hard to believe that Erroll Garner doesn't own a piano, isn't it?

IT'S STILL the custom among most of the people in India to bathe only in moving water, never in a sit-down tub, which is regarded there as a filthy practice.

THE TIGER, the gila monster, the wasp, each bears the distinctive colors of orange and black. And each is dangerous. To a greater of lesser degree. In the world of beasts, orange and black should be a signal for caution, say the wildlife scholars. Even the butterfly so marked, they say, tastes terrible.

It's also a known fact that the biggest markets for the padded bra are in the North.

NINE CHURCHES a day catch fire. Most are just about ruined. Average loss in these is a lot heavier than in almost any other sort of building. Why is clear. Such fires usually are discovered late, because they flare up when the places are unoccupied. Also, fire tends to move unchecked more quickly through the large unbroken areas of the churches than through, say, cubicalized office buildings.

Spend a wild day in the west. At Knott's.

Wild and wooly and full of fun. That's Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park. The rip-roarin' wild west brought back to life for the whole family to enjoy.

You walk the streets of ghost town. Gunshots! The sheriff shoots it out with two badmen. Duck into the Calico Saloon and belly-up to an 1880's bar.

Back into the streets. A pretty girl plays a steam calliope. A barker hustles you into the Birdcage Theater for an old time melodrama. Later, you watch glassblowers. Gunsmiths. Blacksmiths. Visit the livery stable. Candy store. General store...with its pot-bellied stove and old time merchandise.

The wildest rides in the west.

Clamber aboard an old stagecoach. "Reach for the sky. It's a hold-up! Over to Timber Mountain.

Ride a log through sawmills and logging camps. Woosh...you're plummeting down a mountainside.

Next minute you're aboard a small train, clattering and crashing your way into the depths of a gold mine. Look out! Dynamite blasting...and you just missed being trapped!

You take the kids for a burro ride...clip-clopping through yesteryear.

Entertainment Knott's style.

Over to the John Wayne Theater for Knott's Wild Animal Follies. Watch a man wrestle a 500 lb. bear. And a pretty girl cuddle a lion.

Fiesta Village is next.

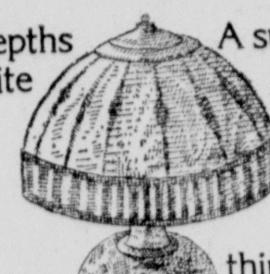

Mariachis playing. Dancers whirling around the plaza. Teeming shops and cantinas. Then to Gypsy Camp to see Zoltan's Gypsy Puppets. Or back to the Knott's John Wayne Theater to catch the Lennon Sisters, Flash Cadillac, Rick Nelson or another headline act.

Dusk. Amble over to the covered wagon camp. Country music around the campfire. Minutes later, Knott's Incredible Fireworks Machine blazes into action.

Dinner time. A big, old-fashioned chicken dinner at Mrs. Knott's restaurant. Or a sizzling steak. Or maybe just hot pretzels and boysenberry juice from a street vendor.

A full day...and just enough time to pick some unusual gifts at one of Knott's stores.

A sunbonnet or home-made pickle. A turn-of-the-century toy, or an antique lamp.

Finally, you hop a genuine San Francisco cable car for a ride to the parking lot. It's been a wild day...full of fun. You haven't seen everything. You haven't done everything. But, then, there's always another day.

Dog feels

CONCORD (UPI) — A 2-year-old dog named Taffy has "adopted" a kitten named Puppy and the Gary Watz household just isn't the same.

"The poor dog is psycho. She thinks she's a mother," said Watz, who bought the kitten for 25 cents three weeks ago.

Despite the difference in size — the dog is half shepherd and half samoyed — the two pets are "very playful" and Taffy has been nursing Puppy like it was her own litter.

Watz said the dog once nipped his 3-year-old son, John, when the child tried to take the kitten away from her.

"It's very comical to watch the two play together," said Watz, a Loss Control manager for an insurance company.

Old mansion will get 24-hour guards and renovation

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — The stately old mansion in San Dimas that has been ravaged in recent months by vandals will now have a 24-hour guard on duty to ward off trespassers.

A spokesman for the owners of the property also promised the City Council Monday night that work would begin today to restore the old house to its original beauty.

Daniel Carran, a representative of Apartment Management Association of Los Angeles, said engineers in his firm estimate that the building could be restored within 45 days at a cost of $10,000 to $15,000.

As city officials explain the situation, the house at 101 E. Foothill Blvd. became a target for vandals after a church organization used the vacant structure for a haunted house operation. The house is hidden from view at the corner of San Dimas Avenue and Foothill Boulevard by a grove that surrounds the property.

Carran disputed a report by city

Building Supt. Richard L. Kumer that the building is "untenable and that costs to rehabilitate the structure would be unreal."

Kumer said all of the barricades on the windows and doors had been removed and that both the exterior and interior of the property are strewn with broken roof tiles, glass, boards, rusty nails and beer cans.

But Carran promised that all that would change starting today when a guard would be on duty at the property and work would begin to secure and clean up the house.

San Dimas resident Robert Chapman testified for the owners at the public hearing to abate the nuisance.

Chapman told the council that he spent several hours at the property Sunday after reading a story in the Progress-Bulletin that reported that the building may be torn down because of the destruction by vandals.

Chapman said he agreed with the owners that the property could be restored and said "it's the most lovely home I have ever been in. It would be a shame to tear it down. I only wish it were mine."

Carran told the council that the property would be rented after the work is completed.

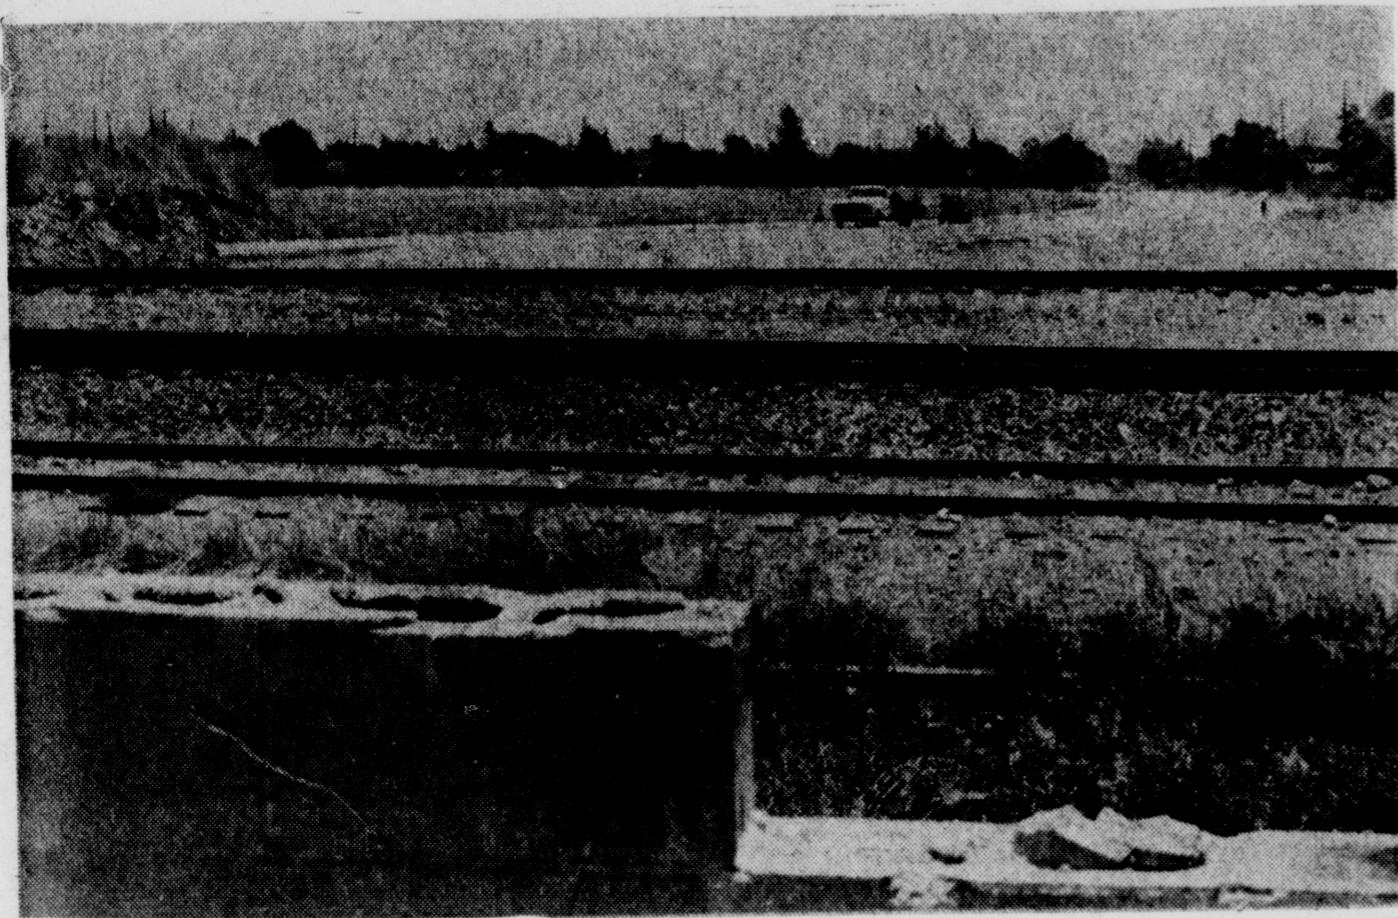

Mayor Jim Lough said he was reluctant to order demolition of the property and was personally happy that the owners are going to restore the property.

"I only wish people had to be made to pay for their offsprings' actions. We are sick and tired of this type of vandalism and only sorry that we can't help the owners of this property." The council continued the abatement hearing until July 22 when the owners will present a rehabilitation plan for the structure.

In other action, the council approved a 25 per cent hike in the rate schedule for Paul's Yellow Cab Co., Inc. Rates will increase from the present $1.15 for the first mile to $1.50.

Gene Italians, the owner, told the council the increase will offset recent increases in gas, wages, workmen's compensation and supplies.

NEW CAMBRIDGE AVENUE

A view from the Cambridge Avenue cul-de-sac in Claremont looks south across a 51-foot cinder block wall and four sets of tracks towards an uncompleted section of Cambridge Avenue which is being constructed to connect with Arrow Highway. The Santa Fe Railway Co. will remove the tracks in the foreground and lower a second set of tracks for a crossing, and railway gates will be installed. Alan M. Hess of Ontario has been awarded the $98,982.25 contract for building the two-lane street.

Two massage parlors lose Pomona licenses

By JON MORRIS
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Employees at two city massage parlors have given their final roundowns.

City councilmen Monday night revoked the licenses of Mirella's Health Salon and Sultan's Palace without comment. They had suspended licenses for the parlors last week after lengthy public hearings.

Deputy City Atty. Kenneth Glube has alleged that Wanda Mirella Davis, operator of the salon at 743 E. Mission Blvd., was convicted of several counts of pimping, pandering and conspiracy to solicit an act of prostitution.

In the Sultan's Palace case, Glube said the parlor knowingly employed an unlicensed massage technician. He added that a masseuse hired there was convicted for prostitution in December 1973 and two masseuses once fled the establishment when police arrived.

Walnut council to study ranch as youth center

WALNUT — A report on the possible use of Winnett Ranch as a youth center will be presented to city councilmen at their meeting Wednesday night.

City Manager Andy Lazzaretto is expected to present the report on proposed use of property at the ranch during the 8 p.m. session at City Hall.

Lazzaretto was asked by councilmen recently to check into the feasibility of renting property at the much-discussed ranch site from owners, which include the Claremont Colleges, Occidental College and Caltech.

During the meeting, the council also will present awards to Walnut elementary school students who participated in the 1974 Walnut Beautiful Clean Up Contest. The students attend Vejar and Collegewood schools.

S.C. conference on church music scheduled here

CHINO — The Southern California Church Music Conference will be held at the First Christian Reformed Church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Free registration will be held at the church at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday. The three-day program will include devotional services, choir rehearsals, organ recitals, talks, demonstrations and panel discussions.

Leaders at the conference include Howard Slenk, professor of music at Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Justin Colyar, professor of music at Orange Coast College, and Dale Grotenhuis, head of the department of music at Dordt College, Sioux Center, Iowa.

Among the topics to be covered are "Organ Design and Registration" (Slenk), "Church Music Sight-Reading" (Slenk), "Directing the Children's Choir" (Slenk), "Electronic Computerized Organ" (Colyar), "Hymn Playing and Singing" (Slenk), "Conducting the Church Choir" (Grotenhuis), "Chorale and Hymn Preludes" (Slenk), "Choral Music Appreciation" (Grotenhuis) and "Composing" (Grotenhuis).

The conference will conclude Friday night with an organ recital by Slenk and a concert by the conference choir conducted by Grotenhuis.

POMONA — Kevin Michael Struve,

the eldest of quadruplets born nearly a month ago to Mr. and Mrs. Richard

Struve of Claremont, may go home this weekend if he continues his steady weight gain.

Kevin now weighs four pounds 6 1/2 ounces and is the only quad in a regular crib. Sisters Kristian Lynn and

Tonya Marie and brother Todd Allan remain in special bassinetttes, but are expected to be moved to cribs Thursday.

The weights of the other quads this morning are Kristina, four pounds, 1 1/2 ounces; Todd, three pounds, 14 ounces;

and Tonya, three pounds, 15 ounces.

Manya Slevkoff, the driver, was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit where her condition today is termed critical. She was driving west in the freeway's slow lane when her car struck an asphalt curb, said highway patrolmen. The impact caused the vehicle to overturn. It then rolled down a dirt embankment and came to rest on its top across the White Avenue on-ramp, said officers.

Guarded concern to relief

Reaction to assessments

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

Reaction to changes in assessed valuations, released Monday by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson, ranged from guarded concern in Pomona to a big sigh of relief in San Dimas.

The figures showed that valuations based on real and personal property increased .99 per cent in Pomona, less than half the expected rise, and 13.75 in San Dimas where heavy building has been taking place during the past year.

Pomona City Administrator Jerrold Goncalves who had estimated the increase at more than two per cent said he did not expect the lower assessment figures to hurt the budget. He pointed out that Watson's figures did not include utilities, and that the assessor's report was only a preliminary one, "basically for our guidance."

He said his staff had made large allowances for delinquencies, but "now we find that those taxes are being paid at a much better rate than at first anticipated. Thus we are getting more in tax dollars than we had estimated."

Watson said Pomona's valuation was being adversely affected by the continuing decline of real and personal property on the Pomona Mall.

The city's valuation also had a strong effect on the Pomona Unified School District which had anticipated a four per cent increase, but wound up with 2.67 per cent.

But here, again, Garrett Nichols, assistant superintendent in charge of business services, contended that "we don't figure to lose any money because the utilities and higher personal valuations are likely to make up most of the difference."

The tenor was quite different in the San Dimas-La Verne areas where Watson's figures showed whopping increases in the assessed valuation.

San Dimas City Manager Robert Poff said that the additional money derived from taxes because of the high assessed valuation will help reduce a deficit budget. He said he had only expected an 8 per cent rise.

He said the city had to dip into its reserves this year to balance expenditures.

"Now we will be able to replenish most of our reserves, and still have a higher base for next year," Poff said. "The new figures will certainly make us healthier."

And in La Verne, City Treasurer Gerry Peck said the staff had anticipated a 6 1/2 per cent rise in assessed valuation, and registered a 10.10 per cent increase.

She said the additional money will be a "big help" in holding the tax line.

S.D. acts to condemn school site for park

SAN DIMAS — The City Council voted Monday night to start condemnation proceedings to acquire the San Dimas Elementary School property for a park if the school district refuses a final offer.

The council voted to have the property reappraised by an appraiser who is experienced in condemnation work. The appraisal will cost between $1,000 and $1,200.

The council acted on a report by deputy City Atty. Richard Laskin who stated that condemnation of the property would force the Bonita Unified School District to accept the city's valuation of the property or allow the court to determine the value.

The state has valued the five acres of property at $75,000. The city has offered to purchase the land at $53,000 but this was before a fire last August destroyed the auditorium of the structure.

The school district said it could find a buyer for the property if the land was zoned for industry. But the city put a zone designation of one to seven units per acre on the land which also can be used for a park under this zoning. Residents of the area want the property used as a park.

Laskin said if the matter goes to court with the school district taking the adversary position, costs could be as high as $5,000. A trial could take from six to eight months.

Laskin said he hopes that the matter can still be settled out of court.

City Manager Robert Poff will try to work out an agreement with the school district that will permit the city to construct a ball diamond on the property before the issue is settled. The city wants to have an additional ballfield ready for the April Little League season.

La Verne sponsoring trip to Disneyland

LA VERNE — A trip to Disneyland is being sponsored Thursday by the La Verne Parks and Recreation Department.

The bus will leave at 9:30 and return at about 5 p.m. The cost is $6.50 for adults, $5.50 for juniors and $5 for those under 12.

Reservations are being taken at the recreation office, 593-4571.

Local VFW post gets 16 awards at state confab

POMONA — Post 2018, Veterans of Foreign Wars, received 14 first-place trophies and plaques and two second-place awards at the recent 54th annual state VFW convention at Bakersfield.

The local post's poppy program was considered the most outstanding effort of any post in the state and past commander Fred E. Klein was on hand to accept the John F. Kennedy trophy on behalf of the local VFW members.

The local poppy program was under the direction of Chairman E. L. Ailshire and Mrs. Stan Cullington for the auxiliary.

Other categories in which the post excelled and the chairman of the local committee are as follows: Americanism, Stan Cullington; youth activities, Chuck Sweeten; hospital, Charles Orelli; community services, Cullington; flags, Cullington, poppy display, Klein; outstanding law enforcement officer, Klein; and membership, Douglas Keenan.

Klein was the recipient of a "White Hat" which denotes him as one of the top 22 outstanding VFW commanders in the state.

Work on parking lot cancels film program

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Public Library children's monthly film program usually scheduled for the second Saturday of the month has had to be rescheduled this week because the parking lot at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards, will be resurfaced Saturday.

Mrs. Martha Ainsworth, children's librarian, reported that the film program, with another set of films than previously announced, will be screened Saturday, July 20 at Pomona First Federal.

Washington's leaky taps

In ancient China, so it is said, an exquisite form of prisoner abuse known as the "water torture" was invented. The victim was strapped under a slow tap. But first he would not mind the periodic splash. But as time went on each would come to have the weight of a bullet and the anticipation of successive drops would produce untold agony, leading if continued to babbling idiocy.

The Chinese torturers have a modern counterpart in those who chose to leak selected confidential information to certain elements of the press and to those press elements who allow themselves to constitute the leaking tap.

These leaks come from junior echelons of congressional and prosecutorial staffs all over Washington, in a steady drip currently from the House Judiciary Committee headed by Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., which is considering the impeachment of the President. They have even come from the previously sacrosanct grand jury chamber.

Such leaks fall upon the brows of government officials—notably of late Secretary of State Henry Kissinger—in the daily newspapers and television and radio news broadcasts. Their impact, falling almost daily from the front page of the capital's morning newspaper, the Post, must be hardly less traumatic upon officials than the torture drip upon the head of the Chinese prisoner.

How can it be that Chairman Rodino, despite quite evidently sincere efforts, is unable to halt these leaks of carefully selected items from his committee? Perhaps an answer lies in the composition of the committee and its staff aides.

A number of these young political aides are still smarting under the repudiation of their successive candidates of the left, Sen. Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern, in two presidential elections. Public statements of committee members Jerome Waldie of California and politician-priest Robert Drinan of Massachusetts lend substance of their identification in the press as contributing to the sieve-like quality of the Rodino committee.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., suggested the other day that the Washington Post be sued as the primary source of these daily drippings of adversarial reporting. Patrick Buchanan, a special White House consultant, is tilting with the Post over the propriety of his revelation that 17 members of the grand jury panel that first revealed in a Post leak—found President Nixon an "unindicted co-conspirator" in Watergate, are members of a minority which voted 10 to 1 against President Nixon—namely blacks.

"And certainly," says Buchanan, "the public has a right to know that the Special Prosecution Force, which presented the evidence to the Grand Jury, is saturated with liberal Democrats. Seven of its first eleven senior appointments were former associates of the Brothers Kennedy."

Buchanan asks why the Post does not direct its vaunted investigative reporting toward revealing the "why" and "who" of the leaks. Absence of this effort, he says, suggests some members of the national press are less observers than collaborators."

These are some of the issues seeking answers these days in the nation's capital which columnist Joseph Alsop, long a Democrat and latterly a severe press critic, sees as "this sewage sump of a city."

What fringe benefits

Women, the law and discrimination were the subjects of a symposium held a few weeks ago at the University of Wisconsin. An idea supported by a number of the 25 women participating in the discussions was mandatory payment to wives for housework, based on a percentage of their husbands' incomes.

The argument was that it would give credit to women in an area that is now often overlooked. In the case of the death of a husband, it would easily indicate the wife's contribution and right to his estate.

This is an interesting idea, but it raises a number of questions.

Man works from sun to sun (with time and a half for overtime). Should we institute definite working hours for housewife to accomplish her tasks?

If a husband was required by law to pay his wife a percentage of his salary for her housework, would that absolve him of all responsibility for taking care of things around the house? A lot of husbands might welcome that kind of situation.

If a wife hired a maid to help with the cleaning, who would be responsible for paying for her, the wife or the husband?

A husband who fails to perform adequately for his employer runs the risk of being sacked. Would he have the right to "fire" a wife who did not get the dust off the furniture to his satisfaction or who let the laundry pile up? In other words, what would be the standards for housework, and how would they be enforced?

The questions may be a little silly, but so is the idea of extending the law into yet another area of people's private lives. If a husband and wife can't work such things out between themselves, then their marriage is in more trouble than any law could remedy.

Tighten security on U.S.-bound jets

WASHINGTON — Arab terrorists may be planning to hijack or blow up airliners bound for the United States in the next few days, according to cables from reaching Washington from trusted foreign intelligence agencies.

Two of these sinister warnings have been relayed by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., privately to House Commerce Committee Chairman Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., in an effort to jar loose Murphy's anti-jacking legislation.

One of the messages comes from crack Dutch intelligence agents who report an attempt may be made on an outgoing Japan Airlines plane. The cable suggests one of the terrorists may be the same man who tried to free the Arabs who gunned down Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics.

"Two terrorists are staying within the countries of Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands," says the cable.

The men are identified as Lebanese citizens Hawa Ghorbe Antoine, 33, and Kab Shouki, 25. The latter, according to Dutch intelligence, "was involved in an action in Germany trying to liberate the murderers (of) the Olympic games players."

In assessing the plot, Dutch police are assuming that the hijackers will not try to carry weapons aboard themselves, but will smuggle them on jumbo jets "by other ways." To counter this, the Dutch recommend instituting "Phase C" security measures.

Under "Phase C," inflight meal containers are searched from hors d'oeuvres to pastries, the catering equipment is scrutinized, service trucks are inspected and even some ground crew members are frisked.

Less detailed but equally ominous information has been received from Japanese intelligence authorities. All airlines at the Tokyo hub airport, according to a confidential cable, have been requested "to tighten security for all flights to the U.S."

The reason: "Airport Police in Tokyo (have) received information of possible bomb warnings on U.S.-bound flights out of Tokyo."

Footnote: Murphy's data agrees with our own confidential reports from the State Department. As we wrote on June 23, U.S. analysts have concluded that new terrorist attacks can be expected against "U.S. targets, including airliners."

BROGER'S BROMIDES: Armed Forces information czar John Broger is setting up a multimillion-dollar computer system to guarantee that U.S. servicemen overseas will be able to hear only the radio news that coincides with his own conservative opinions.

In earlier columns, we have reported how Broger has systematically purged independent-minded newsmen from the taxpayer-supported Stars and Stripes newspaper.

Although Broger refused to talk to us about his computerized radio news programs, memos from his files reveal his plans. One describes setting up a "touch keyboard in the Director's (Broger's) office. The digital system will provide . . . 20 remote lines and a 8 local sources to be selected by the Pentagon."

Reduced to simpler English, this means human reporters, who are sometimes able to tell the truth to the troops despite Broger, are being replaced by machines. And Broger will have his finger on the buttons.

Some of the equipment has already been quietly installed. "The computerized system is steadily being increased to off-line a greater portion of the broadcast day," one of Broger's memos states. "In about two weeks, we will try going with (some shows) with no back up from the news floor."

The memos detail the fare to be forced-fed to servicemen: pompous statements by Pentagon officials on regulations, stories on Nixon prayer breakfasts and such conservative commentators as Paul Harvey. The fairness rule imposed on commercial broadcasters doesn't apply to Broger's empire.

But Broger isn't all-powerful. Some of his machines are already breaking down, and one memo complains about "all the difficulties we have encountered."

Footnote: The Pentagon insists that the machines are just to make it easier and cheaper to take programs from the commercial networks and put them on servicemen's broadcasts.

PRESIDENT'S HIPPIE NEPHEW: Special White House investigator Jack Caulfield has now confirmed our June 21, 1973, story about chasing down young Don Nixon, the President's nephew, in a California hippie community.

Behind locked doors in the Senate, Caulfield confided that Rose Mary Woods, the President's loyal secretary, gave him the first clue as to where young Don was hiding out.

Caulfield proudly told the Senate Watergate Committee that he was quickly able to report back that Don "was located somewhere in the mountains of California and that he was residing with some friends . . .

"There did not appear to be any improprieties," Caulfield testified, "other than the fact that he was keeping company with some young gentlemen who also reside in the area."

Water moves uphill in Michigan

The future rushes at us so fast that those of us who are charged with keeping you advised what's next can hardly keep up with what's new now.

Visit Ludington in western Michigan with me. Tonight after you turn out your lights and go to sleep, Lake Michigan water will start moving uphill.

What they've done on the western Michigan shoreline at the city of Ludington is to build a mountain and hollow out the top.

This is no exaggeration. They moved 38 million cubic yards of sandy soil into a great big pile until the top of it was 370 feet higher than the water level of the lake.

They built a dike on the bluff to create a "hollow mountain." The basin inside that mountain—like the vast, wide crater of a volcano—is lined with asphaltic concrete and filled with water.

What in the world for? All right—here we have a gigantic reservoir voir of more than a square mile of water, hundreds of feet higher than anything else for miles around.

They got that water up there by pumping it up from Lake Michigan with mammoth electrically powered hydraulic turbines. I'll get to the "why" of it in a moment.

There are six pipes, or tubes—each big enough to drive a truck through—through which those turbines pump water up and into the reservoir.

Now they do this at night because that's when most industry and most people are asleep.

The area's electric companies can generate much more electricity at night than they need, but they cannot keep up with the industrial and consumer demand for energy in the busy daytime.

Now you're beginning to understand. At night when electricity is plentiful it is used to pump water uphill into this reservoir.

In the daytime the water flows back downhill—running the turbines in reverse—generating additional electricity for cities as far away as Chicago.

The Ludington Pumped Storage Power Plant. In a sense, a huge storage battery which stores energy for use when it's needed most.

If astronomical figures confound you as they do me, it won't mean much, but these six generators can produce almost 2 million kilowatts of electricity.

Such power will be essential when the state of Michigan within 10-15 years may be using twice as much electricity as now.

This is not the world's only pumped power project; presently it is the largest. But there are a dozen in operation and 50 contemplated as United States of Americans mobilize themselves, their technology, their resources and their machines to keep us—U.S.—the powerhouse of the planet.

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Artificial quotas

The July 2 letter on integration of the Pomona school board raised some questions regarding integration as a whole.

Why is it so important that the activities of our lives be completely integrated and balanced according to sex and racial background? Does the forced integration of all phases of government, industry, education and even social clubs really solve problems—or create new ones?

Can tolerance, brotherhood and mutual respect be gained by quota systems where people are hired or appointed, not because they are the best qualified but, because they fit into a percentage pattern based on sex or skin color?

Such a method discourages excellence, destroys incentive and leads to mediocrity. The end result can only be resentment, a development of class-consciousness, rather than the eradication of it, and a creation of distrust and suspicion.

I'm all for minorities succeeding but according to their individual abilities, not through special privilege because of sex or ethnic background. That is reverse discrimination.

Freedom is a quality that has made America a great nation. Freedom to excel, to grow, to choose one's place in society regardless of sex or color, race, creed or social position. Many a poor immigrant has come to our shores unable to speak our language and under our system has risen to the top.

Those well-meaning people-manipulators who embrace enforced integration are correct in their desire to eliminate discrimination. However, reverse discrimination is as wrong as plain old fashioned discrimination and far more detrimental to the productivity of our society.

If the criteria for Pomona schools is quality education, isn't it logical that the best qualified teachers and administrators be hired? In this obsession to balance and integrate have we forgotten what education is all about?

If it can be proved that forced integration is beneficial, that learning is improved, I'm for it. But the results have been a bit disappointing.

Therefore, I see no need for artificial quotas in classroom, teaching staff, administration or school board. The new school board member should be selected for ability, expertise and a philosophy of education that encourages development of the basic skills and tools of learning needed for adjustment in a free society. Sex, ethnic background, etc. should not be considerations.—Beth Page, Pomona.

Gossip for today

Some folks are never satisfied!—After being won their right to cavort in the altogether on certain designated "nude area" beaches, you'd think the skinheads would quit complaining. But once again they are calling on the law to protect their newly legalized freedom. It just isn't right, they contend, for fully clothed sightseers, some with opera glasses in hand, to be strolling about in their naked midriff—or for helicopters to be hovering over their clothes-necessary area.

And while we are on the subject of what is right and what is gross imposition, I contend the time has come for the men to get into the act. After all, equality of the sexes is a two-way street. And so I rise in righteous wrath and demand that something be done to prohibit a practice now common at most new store openings. After all, the offer of "FREE CIGARS FOR WOMEN" is definitely blatant, out and out, demeaning sex discrimination. Just imagine, if you will, what a furor our liberated females would raise if those stores limited their opening day come-on to FREE CIGARS FOR MEN.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Secrecy surrounds official business

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — France's General DeGaulle called it the "mystique of power"—he gave the people haughtiness and told them little of the way he ran their government.

In this country, officials define the limits for revealing state secrets as the "need to know." In a democracy this is a barely-veiled contempt for the democratic process, and says little for the integrity of the people.

It is absurd to deny the need for government secrecy, in some areas. But since World War II, the Washington penchant for clandestine action has grown to the point that even the most fundamental activities of government are often conducted behind closed doors.

Even Congress, supposedly the closest link with the people and their government, engages in public business behind closed doors. In 1972, nearly half of all House and Senate committee hearings were closed. Meetings other than hearings—where legislation was discussed, marked up or voted on—were closed 80 per cent of the time.

The House recently voted a resumption of open committee meetings, unless the committee publicly votes to close. The Senate rules presume secrecy unless the committee votes to go public. Political caucuses on both sides of Capitol Hill are closed.

What does all this secrecy mean to the taxpayers? Congress annually appropriates billions of dollars behind closed doors. The public cannot challenge nor deny spending of that money.

The White House, with a positive mania for secrecy, spends vast sums each year to maintain its seclusion. In the present administration the well-developed system of public denial is at least partially responsible for the excesses of Watergate. What transpired among those dark White House recesses could not have stood the light of day.

The government's commitment to secrecy has been responsible for some of its most monumental blunders—blunders that are within the memory span of most.

Franklin Roosevelt's secret Yalta discussions gave the Russian communists enormous leverage in Europe, with little but continuing frustration for ourselves.

The Bay of Pigs fiasco was plotted among a few, and failed before the eyes of the world.

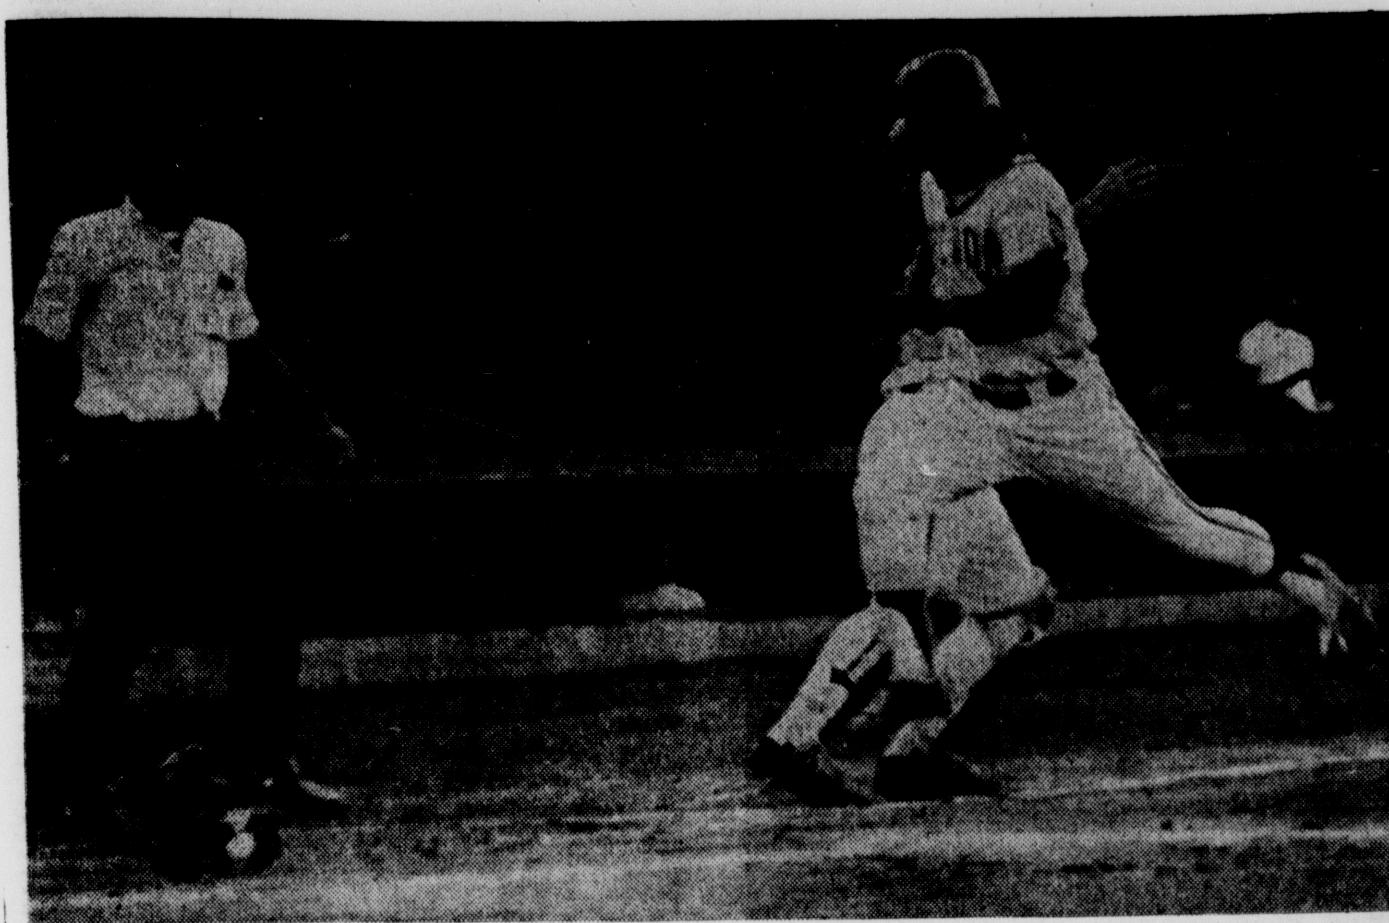

Secret moves in the Gulf of Tonkin and Vietnam further ensnared us in that futile war.

Secrecy has been excused because without it, no real negotiations are possible. Generally, that is true; especially with countries such as the Soviet Union. It is easy for our diplomats to claim the privilege of secrecy because the Soviets demand it.

Soviet policy, in this respect, has been a crutch for American negotiators. Pleading good will for the Russians makes it easier to avoid

Dodger trades work out well

When you think of great baseball trades, the Dodgers' deals over the winter must rate near the top.

Where would L.A. be without Mike Marshall and Jimmy Wynn?

Considering the Dodgers' great depth, they still could be leading baseball without the two newcomers but Marshall and Wynn have been big reasons why L.A. is way ahead in the National League West.

Actually, the Dodgers made two separate deals with Montreal and Houston. But for practical purposes, the trades brought a centerfielder, Wynn, for Willie Davis and a pitcher, Marshall, for Claude Osteen.

In both cases, the Dodgers are way ahead.

Wynn has been the leader in changing the Dodger image from strictly walk-bunt-stolen base-sacrifice fly to power.

How long has it been since the Dodgers have led the National League in home runs? It would have to go back to the great power years in Brooklyn.

While Wynn is currently a liability in the field with his sore shoulder, his bat has been the big one in giving a L.A. a fearsome attack including Steve Garvey, Ron Cey, Willie Crawford and Joe Ferguson.

What more can be said of Marshall?

The ironman professor from Michigan State must be considered as a leading candidate for the coveted Cy Young Award, perhaps even the Most Valuable Player honor.

Marshall's mere presence affects the game.

The Dodgers always know they have him in the bullpen while the opposition realizes how tough it is to come from behind against L.A. with Marshall available to stop any potential rallies.

Even without Marshall, the Dodgers can claim one of the top bullpens in baseball with Jim Brewer and Charlie Hough. Either of them would be an instant hero with the Angels' famous ardent squad.

Considering Davis has not been a big help at Montreal and Osteen is struggling with Houston, the winter deals have helped L.A. get off to its big lead.

Davis and Osteen were both expendable anyway. Davis had seen enough summers in a Dodger uniform while Osteen's ineffectiveness in September last year was a key factor in L.A.'s late season collapse.

With Osteen gone, manager Walt Alston was able to insert lefthander Doug Rau into the starting rotation. Now it would seem a good idea to replace Al Downing with Geoff Zahn as the fifth starter.

Pekarcik proves Post 30's 'deuce'

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — His teammates call him "Deuce" because to Pomona Post 30's American Legion fortunes he's their wild card.

When he isn't whizzing fastball past the hitters from the pitcher's mound, he's beating you with his bat.

While he's called "Deuce" on the Larry Wellins Jewelers-sponsored team, his opponents remember the name Larry Pekarcik.

Pekarcik received credit for two pitching victories, recorded a save and blasted a double and a home run to pep Post 30 to the 14th Annual Upland American Legion Baseball Tournament championship.

The 6-foot-2 righthander hurled the final three frames in Monday night's championship game and struck out seven to preserve the Gems' 4-3 win over Arcadia Post 247, en route to being named the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

In the consolation championship, Mike Ramos and Fred Smith teamed up for a three-hitter and Richard Munoz blasted a solo home run to pace Redlands Post 650 to 5-0 victory over Rowland Heights.

Ramos hurled five effective innings, allowing no runs and two hits, before Smith came on in the fifth and fanned four in his two-inning stint.

Redlands, the District 25 Eastern Division leaders (8-2) extended their lead to 3-0 in the third as Jasco doubled to right-center and advanced to third on a ground out. Brad Duthie walked and stole second and Dave Hostetter drove home both runners with a single to center.

Pomona (24-8) looked as though it had a pretty good job," said Rowland coach Jack Hodges, whose team after losing its first round game to Arcadia Post 5-2 came back to rout San Gabriel 9-4 and La Puente Post 75, 13-1, to reach the consolation finals.

"We had the shakes early in the game but played well from the third through the fifth innings. I feel we made a good showing. I'm not disappointed at all in the kids especially since Redlands is expected to take the District 25 title."

Steve Jasco got Arcadia off and rolling in the title game with a first inning leadoff single off righthander Roger Slayton. Jasco was sacrificed to second, stole third and scored on Bill Voden's infield single to take a 1-0 lead.

The District 18 Western Division leaders (8-2) extended their lead to 3-0 in the third as Jasco doubled to right-center and advanced to third on a ground out. Brad Duthie walked and stole second and Dave Hostetter drove home both runners with a single to center.

Pomona (24-8) looked as though it would have its four-game win streak snapped at four games when the Gems suddenly erupted for four runs in the fourth off starter and losing pitcher Paul Passamato (5-2).

Slayton, who wound up the day going three-for-three and the tourney seven-for-10, started the rally with a single. Following a wild pitch, Slayton scored on Gerrard Piccioni's single to right. Ruben Ruiz, who relieved Slayton on the mound in the fourth, singled to center advancing Piccioni to second.

All-Stars boycott practice

CHICAGO (UPI) — The College All-Stars today boycotted the start of practice for their July 26 game with the world champion Miami Dolphins and threatened to refuse to play in the game, too, unless striking NFL veterans have a signed contract.

The action left plans for the annual summer classic in limbo. The sponsoring Chicago Tribune threatened to cancel the game unless it receives assurance by Wednesday that it will be played "without interference."

The 48 rookie stars who reported to training camp voted after a heated meeting Monday to honor the picket lines of striking veterans and not even practice for the game until "serious negotiations" resume.

Terry Bledsoe, director of information for the NFL Management Council, responded immediately in New York that the owners already had fulfilled that demand. He said Jim Sceare, a federal mediator, asked the NFL management Monday whether it would be

Errors killing Angels

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The name of the game seems to be "badball" and the unfortunate Angels are playing it to the hilt.

The Halos hit a new high in miscues under Dick Williams Monday night and a new low in quality. There were three errors charged bringing the total to 15 in the last seven games.

Four of the six Baltimore runs in a 6-5 win were unearned.

The Angel losing streak now stands at nine (eight under Williams) equalling a string of defeats recorded in 1970. A loss tonight would tie the club record of 10 set in 1963.

Hardly anybody knows what to say in the post-game sessions with Williams. With everyone groping for some question that doesn't seem obvious, irate or both, Williams has adopted the procedure of starting things off himself with something rhetorical.

"We're finding all different kinds of ways to lose them aren't we?" he asked after Monday's defeat.

A writer wondered if Williams thought the team was pressing too much. "They're uptight and they're trying hard," the manager agreed and then it was his turn to grope for some explanation.

"I know a lot of them are pressing. I think they're just overtrying," he finished lamely.

And so it goes when loss piles upon loss.

The harder the Halos try, the worse they play. The faces get longer, the chins sag lower and the clubhouse seems quieter each night.

Williams seems to take it calmly, dispassionately. But he is a proud man and he must be hurting terrible underneath it all. Never has a team of his lost this many games, not even in the minor leagues.

Five of the Orioles' runs were scored in the first inning Monday night off young Andy Hassler (1-4). Only one was earned.

With one out Bobby Grich singled. Tommy Davis flied out to make it two away. But Hassler hit Earl Williams and gave up first-pitch singles to Don Baylor and Brooks Robinson.

One run had scored and the bases were loaded when Jim Fuller hit a high chopper over Hassler's head. Denney Doyle grabbed the ball and fired to John Doherty. The rookie first baseman let it get away and two more runs scored.

Andy Etchebarren, a .196 hitter, cracked a single to right that Lee Stanton booted and another pair of runs came in.

The Angels got two of the runs back in their half of the inning but they might have gotten more.

Doubles by Mickey Rivers and Frank Robinson sandwiched around an out by Dave Chalk and an infield hit by Stanton produced one run and put men on second and third with two out.

Joe Lahoud was robbed of a hit on a great diving stop by Grich who flipped the ball to Williams for the out. Stanton scoring. But Robby had rounded third and was trapped off base when Williams fired the ball to Brooks Robinson.

The Angels themselves were the recipients of a pair of gift runs in the third inning to make it 5-4 game.

A two-out single by Stanton, a hit batter (Robinson), a single by Lahoud and Etchebarren's error gave the Halos a couple of unearned runs.

But in the seventh it all began to unravel again.

Hassler gave up a leadoff single to Blair and was replaced by Dave Sells, just called up from Salt Lake City. Sells retired Grich and Davis on infield outs with Blair advancing one base on each out. Williams picked on Sells' first offering and lined in into left field for a single to drive in Blair.

"Williams got a mistake hit," declared the Halo skipper. "The pitch was down and away but he flared it out there at way."

Wayne Garland (2-1), who relieved starter Doyle Alexander in the fourth got the win, but he left after issuing two walks in the eighth.

Grant Jackson came in and threw three pitches, the third being hit by pinch-hitter Bob Oliver into an inning-ending double play.

Ellie Rodriguez led off the ninth with his sixth homer for the final Halo run. But Baltimore manager Earl Weaver prolonged the agony by calling on three more pitchers: Bob Reynolds, Don Head and Dave Johnson to get the side out.

"We won the ninth inning," chirped general manager Harry Dalton thereby winning the Orange County Optimist of the Month Award.

ANGEL ANGELS — Dick Lance (3-4) and Mike Cuellar (10-5) are tonight's probable pitchers.

The Angels opened up two spots on their roster by selling Sandy Alomar to the Yankees Monday and removing Bill Stoneman from the roster.

Alomar was hitting .222. Stoneman was 1-0 with a 0.14 earned run average.

Called up along with Sells was pitcher Luis Quirino. Quirino, a left-hander was 7-4 with El Paso in the Texas League where he had an ERA of 2.23 and six saves. In 42 innings, he recorded 52 strikeouts and only 22 walks.

Dodger battery throttles Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' battery combined to throttle the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0 Monday night as pitcher Andy Messersmith hurled a three-hitter and catcher Steve Yeager supplied a two-run homer.

Messersmith, who has permitted only six earned runs in his last nine outings, mixed his pitches well and kept the Phillies off balance all game with a tantalizing changeup. He retired nine batters on strikes and walked four in running his mark to 9-2.

"It felt good to go nine," the steady righthander said after completing his ninth game in 20 starts on a hot muggy night. "I began feeling the humidity around the third inning, but the weather kept me nice and loose."

Messersmith was so loose it appeared he would crank up a no-hitter until losing his bid for a masterpiece with one man out in the sixth when Dave Cash slashed a triple into right center. Only one other Philly reached third base.

"Davey hit a bad pitch. He's a good hitter," Messersmith said. "I always try for a no-hitter. I pitched one when I was 11 and I've been trying for 17 years to throw another. But it just never seems to work out."

Cash, who was stranded on third when the Dodger pitcher got Larry Bowa on a pop-up and Mike Schmidt on a third strike, said Messersmith wasn't throwing as hard as he normally does.

"I see him a lot faster," said the Phillies' scrappy second baseman, who also had a single, "but I never saw him with a change-up that worked that well."

Phils Manager Danny Ozark said Messersmith must have used the change 58 per cent of the time, noting that he used it to strike out Schmidt twice with runners on base and lured Bob Boone into an eighth-inning double play with it after two men got on.

Messersmith can thank the man at the business end of his bedeviling pitches for all the offensive help he needed.

Backstop Yeager unloaded his fourth homer of the season over the left centerfield fence with two down in the fourth inning after Steve Garvey beat out a high hopper to third.

The blast shattered a scoreless duel with Ron Schueler, who went down to his 11th loss in 15 decisions, giving up seven of the nine Los Angeles hits and all four runs before retiring after 5 1-3 innings.

Dolphins get ready in case there is game

MIAMI (UPI) — Coach Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins will be ready to play in the College All-Star game at Chicago July 26, whether or not the All-Stars are on hand.

The All-Stars voted Monday to refuse to begin practice for the game until National Football League players resume negotiations with striking players.

"We're going to keep on going here and evaluate those in training camp. We'll continue with our training schedule. I have to be prepared in the event everything is settled," Shula said.

Shula announced that two more veterans non-regulars joined the Dolphins' training camp at Biscayne College Monday. He identified the two as wide receiver Charlie Wade, a member of the Miami taxi squad last season as a 17th round draft choice in 1973, and tackle Willie Young, who also was on last season's taxi squad.

It brought to four the number of veterans in camp along with 40 rookies and free agents. Defensive back Henry Stuckey, signed as a free agent in 1972, and running back Tom Smith, a seventh-round draft choice in 1973, crossed the picket line Sunday.

Del Williams of the New Orleans Saints, representing the Players Association in Miami, said, "I am not really surprised at Shula's decision. I think he pretty much has to at this point."

Williams said he thought that if the strike is settled, "The pros could go in and play the All-Star game with only a few days of preparation, but it would take some time for the All-Stars to get ready. I'd say they'd need two weeks at the very least."

Swimming lessons sponsored

Swimming lessons for children of all ages will be offered this summer in several private pools, sponsored by the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley.

Each class will be limited to a maximum of four students and be 1/2 hour long. The two-week sessions will be Mondays through Friday between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Cyndee Welch, the instructor, will be assisted by Becky Schwarzer. Mothers must accompany babies six months to two years of age. Future sessions are planned on July 15 to 26 on Gaymore Circle, La Verne; July 29 to Aug. 9 on Yorba Drive, Pomona; and Aug. 12 to Aug. 23 on West Aliso Street, Pomona.

Registration can be made by calling the YWCA, 207 E. Monterey St., 622-1269.

DEBRA LEE MOSLEY

Mosley and Jones troth told

Miss Debra Lee Mosley and Danny L. Jones are to be married on Aug. 31 at Mt. Baldy Village Church.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Lynn Mosley of Montclair and Homer Mosley of Montebello. She is a 1974 graduate of Montclair High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jones of Claremont is a 1973 graduate of Montclair High School. He is employed at Pneudraulics.

Bovee and Reid vows said in Webb Chapel

Vivian Webb Chapel in Claremont was the setting for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Marie Reid of Ontario and Jerry Alan Bovee of Santa Barbara.

The Rev. Albert J. Loeschman, cousin of the bride, performed the double-ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus G. Reid, former Pomonaans now residing in Phoenix, Ariz., while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Bovee, also formerly from Pomona and now living in Monterey Park.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor-length empire gown of textured imported knit, trimmed in Italian lace. She designed the gown and the shoulder-length mantilla veil of Italian lace. Blue, yellow and orange daisies and baby's breath were arranged in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Shelly Ann Reid was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Frances Reid, another sister, and Miss Cindy Ortiz. The groom's sister, Mrs. Valerie Schempf, was soloist.

Robert Schempf was best man. Serving as ushers were Alan Martinat and David Wilhams.

Robbie Reid was ring bearer.

Regents honored at ritual

Mrs. Elmer Fishbaugh and Mrs. Ray C. Peterson were invested with red stoles, honoring four years of active participation in the College of Regents, at the College of Regents Chapter Night of Pomona Chapter 542, Women of the Moose.

Investing officers were Mrs. Roger Bush and Mrs. John Oldham.

Mrs. Randy Bohse, who received the College of Regents degree at Mooseheart in June, addressed the meeting. New members enrolled in the class honoring Mrs. Bohse included Mrs. Addie Lawson, Mrs. Betty Miller and Mrs. Loretta Le Groulx.

Membership pins were awarded Mrs. Carroll Townsend and Mrs. Charles Blaney. Mrs. Fishbaugh was chairman of the event which featured members of the College of Regents from all over Southern California. Mrs. Lucille Siem served as acting chairman.

TODAY'S Women

Sandy Bennett wed in outdoor setting

In an outdoor setting at Pilgrim Pines Camp near Yucaipa, Miss Sandy Lee Bennett and James Turner recited their wedding vows before the Rev. Gene Kuehl.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V.B. Bennett of Pomona was given in marriage by her father. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner of Los Alamos, N.M.

A gown of white silk organza designed with a high neckline and long puffed sleeves was worn by the bride. Ruffled lace trimmed the bodice and sleeves. The skirt swept to a cathedral train.

White miniature roses and baby's breath were arranged in the bridal bouquet.

Serving as the bridal attendants were Cindy Henderson, Jody Gmeiner, Maura Bennett and Teri Bennett. A cousin of the bride, Susan Dawe, handled the guest book.

The best man was Dr. E.B. Bennett, the grandfather of the bride. Ushers were Kevin Bennett, Rusty Dawe and Wade Wahrenbrock.

Pilgrim Pines Reception Hall was the setting for a reception honoring the newlyweds who later honeymooned in Mexico. They will reside in Albuquerque, N.M.
